Colliers releases 2025 Global Sustainability Report

Highlights emissions reductions and progress in delivering long-term value across Asia Pacific

ASIA PACIFIC, June 3, 2026 – Colliers (NASDAQ, TSX: CIGI) released its 2025 Global Sustainability Report, demonstrating measurable progress against its sustainability commitments in Asia Pacific and globally, including reduced emissions intensity, enhanced workplace experience, strengthened governance and ethics, and the responsible adoption of artificial intelligence.

The report articulates Colliers’ continued advancement of Built to Last, its global sustainability strategy, which focuses on environmental, social and governance priorities that are most critical to managing risk and driving positive impact.

Key Asia Pacific highlights include:

- Achieving a 41.3% reduction in Scope 1 and 2 emissions intensity from our 2021 baseline, representing a 9.26% year-over-year improvement.
- Sourcing 36% of electricity for Colliers’ Asia Pacific portfolio from renewable energy.
- 7,260-plus volunteer hours supporting community initiatives

Key global highlights include:

- Achieving a 32.2% reduction in Scope 1 and 2 emissions intensity from our 2021 baseline, representing a 6.4% year-over-year improvement.
- Sourcing 42% of electricity for Colliers’ global portfolio from renewable energy.
- 16,400+ volunteer hours supporting community initiatives

“As sustainability expectations become more performance driven, our focus is on delivering outcomes that fortify, de-risk and create lasting value within our own operations and for our clients,” said Sam Harvey-Jones, Colliers’ Chief Operating Officer, Asia Pacific. “I’m proud of our 2025 progress and the way our professionals across the Asia Pacific region continue to turn ambition into action. The report reflects where we are today and where we’re going as we stay agile, focused and energised about the positive impact we can create together.”
